

Petra Helebrantová

About

I am a multidisciplinary artist and designer based in Prague, Czech Republic, and San Francisco, California, where I split my time between studying and working. This allows me to draw creative inspiration from both European and American design cultures.

I specialize primarily in UX/UI design, web design, brand identity, editorial design, and photography. However, I am passionate about exploring various design disciplines and visual storytelling techniques. I am driven by a perpetual quest for creative inspiration and a deep appreciation for meaningful design that connects with people.
